Dear Sir or Madam,

I don't smoke myself, but two of my closest friends smoke constantly. They are considerate of me, and I'm considerate of them because you have to have something you can do without everyone criticizing you. I hate the fact that the government is taking more and more freedoms away. On the second floor of our hospital, they've provided a separate smoking section that doesn't bother anyone. I think this is a great idea and that every building should do that. If you're worried about cancer, then do not smoke. Cancer and smoking are not at all always directly related. I don't like to smell smoke, but that's because I don't smoke. I don't think, though, that we should tell people, "You can't smoke anywhere in this world." People are old enough to know the facts about cigarettes. They're entitled to make their own choices, not have government make their choices for them.

Yours truly,

Ms. Agnes M. Danielson
